The aim of modern writers of drama is to come as close to nature as possible. A natural play with natural actors is bound to please. In "No Mother to Guide Her," which will be presented at the Barre opera house next Saturday evening, there will be no lack of human interest and the company has been selected with such great care that each one is especially suited for the part he or she is to play. Miss Lillian Mortimer is the authoress. Her reputation is too well known to need more than a passing word. In her play she has introduced a character by the name of "Bunny," a homeless waif, who has a great big heart and all the brightness of wit which comes to those who have to struggle with the world all alone. The story of the play is intensely interesting and is presented with elaborate production.

Deceased was 47 years of age and formerly lived in Barre, where he lost his wife and two daughters from tuberculosis several years ago.

NEW YORK'S EAST SIDE.

Where Cents Are Common and Big Bills Are Eyed With Suspicion.

"When you think of the millions in New York and the money spent on Fifth avenue and Broadway," said the woman, "it is pitiful to see the dearth of it on the east side. It is noticeable most of all in the change they give you—always pennies. Go to the grocery, and you come back with your pocketbook filled with pennies. Fortunately they are not cart wheel pennies such as they have in England or you would have to call a messenger boy to carry them home for you."

"I went into a little place near First avenue the other day to have my face massaged. The masseur was an accomplished Austrian. He did the work beautifully, but when I handed him a dollar—it was 50 cents I owed him—he handed me back 20 cents of the change in pennies. I don't know why, but it seemed a pitiful thing to me that he shouldn't have had that much silver in change in the house."

"They stare at you aghast, these east side people, if you ask them to change a five dollar bill. They are afraid it may be counterfeit. And as for a ten—they won't change a ten at all on First avenue."—New York Press.
